FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

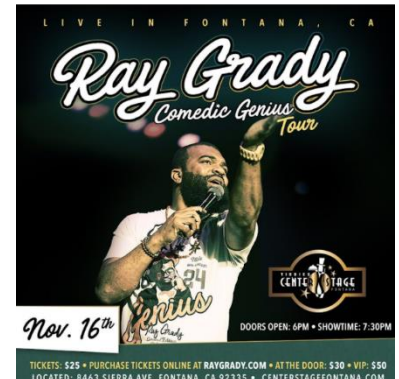

OCTOBER 04, 2019

Los Angeles, CA - October 04, 2019: He's toured with Bill Bellamy. You've seen him on BET and Kevin Hart Presents. He's sold-out venues throughout SoCal and across the Country and starred in the critically acclaimed feature film, Then There Was Joe. Comic/Actor Ray Grady will embark on his most ambitious tour to date, with his ten-city Comedic Genius Comedy Tour. His first stop is the Cleveland Improv, at 8:00 p.m., Saturday October XX, 2019.

Ray will officially launch Comedic Genius at the Cleveland Improv, and make his way back to SoCal at The Laugh Factory in Long Beach November 10th. He'll finish out 2019 at The Palms in Las Vegas with Michael Baisden, December 30th to bring in the New Year. Comedy lovers better grab their wigs because hurricane Ray Grady is about to blow through town.

Born and raised in Chicago, Ray Grady has been doing stand-up for over fifteen years, and has gained major traction with some of the biggest names in the business and on the comedy circuit. With the success of his Alpha Male Comedy Tour and feature film acting debut, Grady has strategically established himself as a triple threat, tucking stand-up comedy, comedy writing and acting firmly under his belt. He is currently reading several scripts.

Grady explains Comedic Genius as, “My visual observation of the world. My job is to talk about you and myself. I’m seriously joking about real BS.” He makes comedy out of a few hot topics like more men staying at home while women work. Grady says, “As an Alpha Male, I’ve got a problem with this role reversal.” He describes this new wave of men as “hussies” aka men who’ve lost their place in society, and he has the audience roaring with laughter as he devours the subject on stage. “Being an Alpha male, it’s my job to discuss those things, to make people laugh and then go home and talk about it,” says Ray Grady.
